That the failure of the Victory Loan That the failure of the Victory Loan to go over might justly be regarded as a triumph for America's enemies, was the substance of a long distance, loud speaking telephone address transmitted to the crowd in Victory Way Yesterday, by Gen. Peyton C. March from his desk in the War Department in Washington. Gen. March said:

"The American army has done its part and the patriotic people of New York will not fall to see the thing finished. "In this hour, when financed propaganda is at work to discredit American institutions as well as those of other civilized nations, the failure of the Victory Loan would be justly regarded as a triumph for our enemies; it would be an inspiration for them to continue
